Just when you thought 'it doesn't happen around here' ...

Catalytic converters stolen

Between 7th and 13th June, a farm in East Huntspill noticed the exhaust pipe on one car hanging off. They discovered two catalytic converters and been stolen. The Police have seen a rise in catalytic converter thefts and advise that property marking them is possible or special locks can be fitted.

Info about who is stealing these to 101 or Crimestoppers.

Stay Alert

Members continue to report scam emails about your car not being taxed (you can always check on the DVLA website if you have any doubt) and fake BT phone calls suggesting there is a problem with your Broadband. There is no end to the lengths these scammers will go to, so take care.

This coming Tuesday 29th June at 11am, Get Safe Online will be holding an exclusive Facebook Live session in collaboration with Lloyds Banking Group. This session will be providing advice and tips on some of the most commonplace scams.

You are warmly invited to join in this session where you can hear advice from a panel of leading fraud prevention experts.

Go to <https://www.facebook.com/GetSafeOnline/> .

The live event will start streaming on this channel at 11am on Tuesday.

Simply access the page at this time to view the session. There is no need to register.
